

D58 Australian Labor Party – Heathcote State Electoral Council

History	The electorate of Heathcote was created in 1970 as a result of boundary redistributions which abolished the Bulli electorate. The electorate council is comprised of delegates from A.L.P. branches within the electorate. Its function is to select and support A.L.P. candidates to contest state elections in the Heathcote electorate. It also considers suggestions on Party policy and management submitted by branches.
